Special Edition

Many of you are currently preparing work for presentation at one of the many upcoming conferences. Others are contemplating offering work to present at future conferences. Therefore, we thought we would send out this information to assist with preparing conference posters and oral presentations

Please feel free to contact us if you have any questions.

If you wish to be removed from this mailing list please let us know by emailing us at phcred@greaterhealth.org

All our other contact details are given over the page.

We look forward to helping you with your research

How To ...

Design and present posters for maximum impact & Oral Presentations: Preparation and Delivery

Do you ultimately want your research or program evidence to effect changes to policy and practice? How can you effectively use posters to communicate your key messages to those who matter? How can you maximise the impact of your poster and/or poster presentation? [Original: Oct 2005 Reprint: Mar 2006]. PHC RIS, Lowcay, B., McIntyre, E. (2006). Fact Sheet: Design and present posters for maximum impact. Adelaide: Primary Health Care Research & Information Service

Presentations can be positive experiences. There are a few things you can do to ease the strain to ensure that your presentation runs smoothly. This resource has been prepared to assist you with the planning and delivery of your next paper presentation. PHC RIS, Eckermann, S., Hordacre, AL., Keane, M., Lowcay, B., Magarey, A., Martus, B., McIntyre, E., Osman, E., Reid, K., Drake, P., Jackson-Bowers, E. (2006). Fact Sheet: Oral presentations: preparation and delivery. Adelaide: Primary Health Care Research & Information Service
